A fantastic position that requires many different skills and abilities.
 - Experience in warehouse work, including forklift driving

 - Skilled in handling administrative tasks
 - Experience in handling returns and product grading

So I worked in a warehouse and my tasks were:

 - Experienced in warehouse work and forklift driving
 - Technical knowledge for unique customer cases
 - Mastery of administrative tasks
 - Handling returns and product grading.

Driving a forklift, receiving goods with gross delivery every Monday and Thursday.

A large part of the job was helping customers with various inquiries and any needs. So I needed to use my technical skills and what applies to each unique case.

I packed services to repair products, did admin work. This means I handled emails, internal system tasks regarding returns or product grading, credit requests, etc.

A really fun experience, I learned so much during that short time.
